

Home
 |
Self study
 :
Writing Systems
 |
Contents
 |
Intro
 |
1. Meaning, sound & looks \(a/b/c\)
 |
2. Scripts
 |
3. Script development
 |
4. Division
 |
5. Basic unit of writing
 |
6. Logograms
 |
7. Ideographic and logographic scripts
 |
8. Syllabic scripts
 |
9. Alphabetic scripts
 |
10. Non-Roman scripts
 |
11. Biscrificial map
 |
12. Greek and Roman alphabets

Alphabets of unknown origin are, or were in a not too distant past, in use for the Berber language Tuareg (Tafinagh, a consonantal script possibly derived from the ancient Numidian alphabet), and some regional languages in Indonesia: Batak (in North Sumatra) and Buginese (in Southwest Celebes). The latter is supposed to have had its origins in Java, and thus be related to the scripts of Southern India.

<previous

Copyright United Nations Statistics Division and International Cartographic Association, July 2012