Introductory Note

Volume II of the “Review of Support to Statistical Capacity Building in Sub-Saharan Africa: From Reporting to Collaboration” presents the detailed preliminary results of the light reporting exercise as of January 2006. It contains five tables, showing the results by beneficiary country, by development partner, by major statistical activity, and by key financing sources, and providing general information on development partners who responded to the questionnaire. It should be noted that Table V reflects only responses to the questionnaire of the light reporting exercise, and that it will be complemented by a Directory of Development Partners that is under preparation. The Directory, providing summary information on each partner’s objectives, areas of intervention, and institutional structure and contacts, is expected to be distributed in April 2006, following review by partners.

When interpreting the attached results of the light reporting exercise, the constraints and limitations enumerated in Volume I should be kept in mind, namely:

- SCB support could be lower for 2004-05 than what is presented in the tables, since for partners with long-term projects/programs (representing a large percentage of total financing support), the amount provided represents total commitments to the operation, which normally cover a longer period than 2004-05. This exercise reports on commitments rather than disbursements because disbursement information is often less readily available and more difficult to compare, given the different “fiscal years” used by partners;
- possibility of double-counting, especially for activities financed and implemented by different organizations. Cross-referencing efforts were taken to minimize this problem, but further verification with both financial partners and intermediaries would be necessary;
- the information provided represents planned activities at the approval stage, not necessarily actual activities implemented;
- for projects/programs that cover a group of countries, a simple arithmetic average was used to calculate the amount of financing per country (this does not apply to the ICP of the African Development Bank, for which amounts are country-specific).

In addition, the following points should also be taken into account:

- UNICEF data does not include the financial support to MICS;
- U.S. data is derived from (i) the DHS website and (ii) biannual reports of the Office of Management and Budget on Statistical Activities of the US Government;
- for World Bank and EC projects, which included components of SCB, but whose amounts were not specified, an estimate of 3% of total project cost was assumed;
- the technical assistance of the IMF, reported as person-years, was converted into financial terms by using the average annual cost for short-term and long-term experts (as provided by the IMF) for each year;
- France’s assistance to the 3 statistical training centres (ENSEA, ENEA, and ISSEA) is composed of: (i) general support (equally divided); (ii) scholarships (calculated for each centre based on its percentages share of students); and (iii) technical assistant for ENSEA and ENEA (equally divided);
- for ACBF’s projects in Cameroon (CAMERCAP) and Gabon, the statistical component was estimated as one-half of total financing;
- all non-U.S. dollar amounts were converted into U.S. dollars by using an average annual exchange rate (International Financial Statistics of the IMF) for the two-year period 2004–05;
- gaps in Table 5 reflect non-submission of the general information sheet.
