* E/CONF.94/1.

** Prepared by the Working Group on Country Names of the United Nations Group of Experts on Geographical Names and submitted by Sylvie Lejeune.

During its 16th Session (New York 24 August - 4th September 1992) the UN Group of Experts on Geographical Names decided to form a working group to establish the official forms of country names. This working group has been given the task of updating a previous list drawn up in 1986.

The document presented to the 8th Conference is current as of 1st June 2002. It comprises the names of independent states generally recognised by the international community ; in total 192 countries. The short form in English is given at the heading. East Timor, the Holy See and Switzerland are marked with an asterisk to indicate that they are not members of the United Nations.

The aim of this study was primarily to research the names in their official languages and in their short and long forms. Even in the absence of a certified written form, the languages which have been considered official herein are those upon which the majority of the sources consulted agree. This certified written form will have to be researched at a later date in consultation with the countries or experts concerned.

Languages written in non-Roman scripts have been transliterated according to systems adopted by the countries concerned and recommended by the UN when such systems exist. In the absence of such systems, the forms most widely recognised on an international level have been used, derived from the joint US BGN and UK PCGN standards.

Arabic-speaking countries and countries of the former Soviet Union have been treated in the following way :

- for Arabic countries, of the Middle East, and of North Africa, the single transliteration system, the Amended Beirut System (1972) has been used ;
- for countries of the former Soviet Union where Russian seems to have retained some legal status (Belarus, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan), the Russian name has been given, transliterated according to the GOST 83 system, in the absence of an official statute.

For 4 of these countries (Azerbaijan, Moldova, Turkmenistan and Uzbekistan) names in local languages correspond to forms written in the Roman alphabets recently adopted by these countries. In the absence of transliteration systems detailed by the other countries, their new official names have been established from the national Cyrillic forms, transliterated according to BGN/PCGN standards.

Finally for countries using an unwritten official language, in particular those of the South Pacific islands, supplementary information has been researched through government representatives or the experts concerned.

The previous list contained national forms in the official languages of the UN. For technical reasons, it has not been possible to reproduce Arabic, Chinese or Russian names. Conversely, it has been considered useful to provide the corresponding names in English, French and Spanish as published in the United Nations Terminology Bulletin N° 347/Rev. 1 (1997) Country Names.

In other respects, having established the differences between this publication and works originating in the countries themselves, the Working Group considered it necessary to mention the forms used at national level, for information purposes and in order to bring them to the attention of the UN Terminology Section. These differences have therefore been systematically noted. Through this study, the Working Group wishes thus to achieve standardisation of national forms within the UN.

The technical content of the boxes and the reference works are presented in the attached annexes.

The Working Group on Country Names would like to invite everyone to forward remarks to improve and update this document.

ANNEX1. Contents and presentation of boxes*1.1     The heading of each box comprises:

- on the left, the code of upper-case letters (Alpha-2), such as defined in the International Standard ISO 3166*Codes for the representation of names of countries* (5th edition of 1997 and updating ISO 3166/MA 2002)
- in the centre, the short form of the name in English.

1.2     Country names are given in their short form (usual name), then in their long form (complete expanded name), successively in the official languages, then in the three working languages of the Group of Experts.For the official language or languages of each country:

- in the left-hand column, the name of the language is given in English, preceded by the 2 lower-case letter code, such as defined in the International Standard ISO 639 (1988) Codes for the representation of names of languages (ISO 639-1, 1988 ; ISO 639-2, 1998, revision 2000 ; ISO 639-2/RA Change Notice, 08/01/2001, 20/02/2002).
- when a language does not have a code in this Standard the name of the language has been given, as is the case for Creole (Haiti), Chichewa (Malawi) and Palauan (Palau) whilst the coding of these language names is being awaited.
- In the columns following the long and short forms of the country name is given as follows:

if the country uses the Roman alphabet, the name is written in upright characters, with accents and diacritical marks as used in the country concerned;

if the country uses another alphabet, the name is rendered as transcribed or transliterated into Roman letters according to official systems or those recommended in the resolutions of the UN Conference on the Standardization of Geographical Names. The transliterated form is written in italics and the name is provided in the original script where possible.

1.3     The second part of the table comprises names in English, French and Spanish as published in the latest edition of the United Nations Terminologie Bulletin N° 347/Rev. 1 (1997) Country Names.1.4     Any differences between the names in the United Nations Terminology Bulletin and those recommended by authorities of countries using English, French, or Spanish are noted in a third part of the table entitled « Name used by a national authority ».1.5     The heading NOTES appears underneath. This allows the inclusion of information relating to :

- languages
- transliteration systems used
- reference works

N.B: Whenever there is any doubt about a name, a letter, or an annotation, a question mark brings this to the attention of the experts.

LISTE DES NOMS DE PAYS DU MONDE

Au cours de sa 16ème session (New York 24 août et 4 septembre 1992), le groupe d'experts des Nations Unies pour les noms géographiques a décidé de reformer un groupe de travail pour les noms des pays du monde dans leur forme officielle. Ce groupe de travail a été chargé de mettre à jour une précédente liste établie en 1986.

Le document présenté à la 8ème Conférence est à jour au 1er juin 2002. Il comprend les noms des États indépendants généralement reconnus par la communauté internationale, soit actuellement 192 pays ; leur forme courte en anglais est placée en titre. Un astérisque accompagnant leur nom signale que le Saint-Siège, la Suisse et le Timor oriental ne font pas partie de l'Organisation des Nations Unies.

Cette étude a porté en premier lieu sur la recherche des noms dans leurs langues officielles et dans leurs formes courte et longue. Ont été considérés comme officielles les langues pour lesquelles la plupart des documents consultés étaient concordants, même en l'absence d'une forme écrite attestée. Celle-ci devra être recherchée ultérieurement auprès des pays ou des experts concernés.

Les langues écrites dans des alphabets non latins ont été translittérées dans l'alphabet latin selon les systèmes adoptés par les pays concernés et recommandés par l'ONU, chaque fois qu'ils existaient. En l'absence de tels systèmes, on a eu recours aux formes les plus connues sur le plan international, issues des normes anglo-américaines BGN/PCGN.

Les pays de langue arabe et ceux issus de l'ex-U.R.S.S. ont été traités de la manière suivante :

- pour les pays arabes, du Moyen-Orient et d'Afrique du Nord, on a eu recours au seul système de translittération dit de Beyrouth amendé (1972) ;

- pour les pays issus de l'ex-U.R.S.S., on a indiqué le nom russe translittéré selon le système GOST 83 des pays où le russe semble avoir conservé une existence légale, à défaut d'un statut officiel (Biélorussie, Kazakhstan, Kirghizistan).

Les noms dans les langues locales correspondent pour 4 de ces pays, l'Azerbaïdjan, la Moldavie, l'Ouzbékistan et le Turkménistan, aux formes écrites dans les alphabets latins récemment adoptés par ces pays. En l'absence de systèmes de translittération élaborés par les autres pays, leurs nouveaux noms officiels ont été établis à partir des formes cyrilliques nationales translittérées selon les normes BGN/PCGN.

Enfin, pour les pays utilisant une langue officielle non écrite, en particulier ceux de l'Océanie, des informations complémentaires ont été recherchées auprès des représentants des gouvernements ou des experts concernés.

La précédente liste comportait les formes nationales dans les langues officielles de l'ONU. Pour des raisons matérielles, il n'a pas été possible de reprendre les noms arabes, chinois et russes. Par contre, il a été jugé utile d'indiquer les noms correspondants en anglais, espagnol et français, publiés dans le Bulletin de terminologie des Nations Unies n° 347/Rev. 1 (1997) Noms de pays.

Par ailleurs, des divergences ayant été constatées entre cette publication et les ouvrages émanant des pays eux-mêmes, le Groupe de travail a estimé qu'il fallait mentionner ces formes usitées au niveau national, à titre d'information et afin de les porter à la connaissance de la section de terminologie de l'ONU. Ces divergences ont donc été systématiquement signalées. Le groupe de travail souhaite ainsi parvenir par l'intermédiaire de cette étude à une normalisation des formes nationales au sein de l'ONU.

Le contenu technique des fiches ainsi que les ouvrages de référence sont présentés dans les annexes.

Le groupe de travail pour la liste des pays du monde remercie toute personne qui voudra bien lui faire parvenir ses remarques afin d'améliorer et de tenir à jour ce document.

ANNEXE1. Contenu et présentation des fiches*1.1. Le titre de chaque fiche comporte :

- à gauche, le code à deux lettres majuscules (alpha-2), tel qu'il est défini dans la Norme internationale ISO 3166 Codes pour la représentation des noms de pays (5ème édition de 1997 et mise à jour 2002 de l'ISO 3166/MA).
- au milieu, le nom du pays en anglais, dans la forme courte usitée par l'ONU.

1.2. Les noms de pays sont donnés dans leur forme courte (nom usuel), puis dans leur forme longue (nom entier développé), dans les langues officielles locales.*Pour la langue officielle, ou les langues officielles de chaque pays :

- dans la colonne de gauche, le nom des langues est exprimé en anglais, précédé du code à deux lettres minuscules, tel qu'il est défini dans la Norme internationale ISO 639 Code pour la représentation des noms de langues (ISO 639-1, 1988 ; ISO 639-2, 1998, révisée en 2000 ; ISO 639-2/RA Change Notice, 08/01/2001, 20/02/2002).
- lorsqu'une langue citée n'a pas de code dans cette norme, on a porté le seul nom de la langue, comme pour le créole (Haïti), le chichewa (Malawi) et le palau (Palau), dans l'attente d'une codification de ces noms de langues.
- dans les colonnes suivantes figure le nom du pays, forme courte et forme longue, comme suit :
  - . si le pays utilise l'alphabet latin, le nom est écrit en caractères droits, avec les accents et signes diacritiques éventuellement utilisés dans le pays ;
  - . si le pays utilise un autre alphabet, le nom porté résulte de la transcription ou de la translittération en caractères latins selon les systèmes officiels ou recommandés dans les résolutions des Conférences des Nations Unies pour la normalisation des noms géographiques.

La forme translittérée est écrite en caractères italiques et le nom dans l'écriture originale a été indiqué chaque fois que possible.

1.3. La deuxième partie du tableau comprend les noms en anglais, français et espagnol publiés dans la dernière édition du Bulletin de terminologie des Nations Unies n° 347/Rév. 1 (1997) Noms de pays.*1.4. Les éventuelles divergences entre les noms du Bulletin de terminologie et ceux recommandés par les autorités des pays d'expression anglaise, espagnole et française sont mentionnées dans une troisième partie du tableau intitulée « Name used by a national authority ».*1.5. Une rubrique NOTES figure en-dessous. Elle permet de mentionner des indications se rapportant :

- aux langues
- aux systèmes de translittération utilisés
- à des ouvrages de référence

N.B. Chaque fois qu'il y a un doute sur un nom, une graphie ou une note, un point d'interrogation a été porté à l'attention des experts.

| , | dammah tawīlah | u                           |            |
| ◦ | sukūn          | omit                        |            |
| ‘ | fathah alif    | ā                           | Long vowel |
| ـ | kasrah yā’     | ī                           | Long vowel |
| ـ | dammah wāw     | ū                           | Long vowel |
| ـ | alif maddah    | ā (initial), ā (medial) |            |
| ـ | alif maqṣūrah  | á                           |            |
| ـ | tā’ marbūtah   | h, t                        | See note 1 |
| ـ | shaddah        | doubling                    | See note 2 |

1 - tā’ marbūtah is transliterated "t" when it occurs in the first word of a "construct" (a possessive construction). This word is never written with the article (al).

Examples : Saltanat ‘Umān, Dawlat Qaṭar.

The second word may be one in which the article appears, or it may likewise lack the article. Elsewhere tā’ marbūtah is rendered as "h" (silent).

Examples : Jumhūriyat Miṣr al ‘Arabīyah, al Jumhūriyah al Yamanīyah.

2 - The combination of the consonant character yā’ with a shaddah preceded by a kasrah ( ـــ ) is romanized īy rather than iyy (e.g. ـــ is romanized īyah and not iyyah).
