

Issue Paper 3.2	Renewable vs. non-renewable energy sources, forms and technologies	<ol style="list-style-type: none"><li>1. We may define clearly new energy sources, otherwise it is quite confusing.</li><li>2. Renewable energy seems to be of two types, one renewable without human intervention, two renewable with appropriate human intervention.</li></ol>
----------------------------	-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------	-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------