Making Voices Heard and Count

LNOB Pilot (Jan 2018 – Mar 2019)

- 12 ICSSOs joined as global founding members
- Setup of 5 national coalitions in Bangladesh, India, Kenya, Nepal, Vietnam
- Bringing together ICSSO country offices, national NGOs, platforms, CBOs
- Action plan for a pilot research + government dialogue in each country

Methodology

- Across five countries we used different community-driven monitoring tools, including a mixture of scorecards, key informant interviews, household surveys, focus groups, social audits, and regular surveys.
- Key informant interviews were carried out with target groups (marginalized groups) as well as local service providers and decision makers.
- We tried to use existing indicators from governments and then looked further where we could complement national data.

Involvement of community representatives

More than 2,000 representatives of marginalised communities engaged in data generation

Key conclusions of the pilot

- LNOB not properly addressed in SDG monitoring, review & implementation
- Must be mainstreamed across national policies & international commitments
- Need for more local data & research to inform planning of policies & services
- Community members, when armed with the right tools & knowledge, can monitor the SDG implementation in their own area, inform local planning and hold authorities accountable.

Making Voices Heard and Count
(Scaled-up project 2020-2022)

- Building momentum towards mid-point of SDG delivery in 2022:
 - Scaling up size/scope of research in our 5 original action countries
 - Collaborative action to be implemented in at least 10 action countries

- Vision: impacting future SDG delivery over the next 8 years until 2030:
 - Blueprint for a people-driven SDG implementation!
 - Make more countries use participatory + inclusive SDG approach!
 - Realise the promise to 'leave no one behind' in 2030!
