

INTRODUCTION

<previous - next>

This chapter shows the semantic, phonetic and graphic aspects of language. It traces the development of the graphic aspects from Sumeria 3500BC, from logographic or ideographic via syllabic into alphabetic scripts resulting in a number of script families. It gives examples of the various scripts in maps (see underlined script names) and finally deals with combination of scripts on maps.

Home
|
Self study
:
Writing Systems
|
Contents
|
Intro
|
1.Meaning, sound & looks \(a/b/c\)
|
2.Scripts
|
3.Script development
|
4.Division
|
5.Basic unit of writing
|
6.Logograms
|
7.Ideographic and logographic scripts
|
8.Syllabic scripts
|
9.Alphabetic scripts
|
10.Non-Roman scripts
|
11.Biscriptual map
|
12.Greek and Roman alphabets

<previous - next>