

Annotated Agenda

Monday, 9 September

Module 1: Emerging Trends in Data Dissemination

Thoughts of experts in data dissemination as to the future development and emerging trends over the next 5 years, and looking out over the next decade.

Country presentations and facilitated general discussion will follow.

Module 2: Strategies for Web-based Data Dissemination

The module will have a presentation on the principles, goals, platforms, standards and many other aspects of web-based data dissemination.

Country presentations and facilitated general discussion will follow.

Tuesday, 10 September

Module 3: Emerging trends in Data Exchanging and Data Hubbing

This module will provide examples of data exchange protocols and the use of SDMX. It will also examine of experience of data aggregation, data hubbing, and the accessibility and searchability of data. The use of cloud computing for data exchange and aggregation will also be discussed.

Country presentations and facilitated general discussion will follow.

Module 4: International Data Dissemination

The module will provide an introduction into data dissemination products created by the United Nations and other International Agencies as well as it will focus on data dissemination principles followed by International Agencies.

Country presentations and facilitated general discussion will follow.

Wednesday, 11 September

Module 5: Integrating Statistical and Geospatial Information

This module will discuss how web services and cloud-based applications, which involve the integration of statistical information with geospatial information, are increasingly used to deliver new decision support and data dissemination capabilities.

Country presentations and facilitated general discussion will follow.

Module 6: Challenges in Promoting Data and Data Dissemination Policies

The module will focus on promotion aspects of web products, such as search engine optimization, cross linking and advertising. As well as it will touch on data dissemination policies regarding terms of use, intellectual property and pricing issues.

Country presentations and facilitated general discussion will follow.

Thursday, 12 September

Module 7: Emerging User Needs and Requirements.

This module will discuss new developments in statistical data dissemination linked to users requiring high frequency and real time statistics, mobile device support, social networking and citizen statistics.

Country presentations and facilitated general discussion will follow.

Module 8: Data Dissemination and Communication – the Way Forward

Summary key note presentations and discussions regarding the future of data dissemination and communication.