Population Characteristics: Guam 1992

- Table 1. Total population: All persons who were enumerated as an inhabitant of his or her "usual residence", without regards to the person's legal status or citizenship on census day April 1, 1990. Usual residence is the place where the person lives and sleeps most of the time or considers to be his or her residence. Persons temporarily away from their usual residence whether in the area or abroad, on a vacation, or on a business trip were counted at their usual residence. Non-immigrant aliens and all active members of the U.S. Armed Forces and their dependents living on their respective base or post installation were counted in the census. Persons on U.S Maritime ships were counted at that homeport of the ship. College students away at school were counted at the place where living while attending college/university. Persons in institutions under formal authority, supervised care or custody, such as jails; detention centers; juvenile institutions; nursing, convalescent and rest homes for the aged and dependent; or homes, schools, hospitals or wards for the physically handicapped, mentally retarded, or mentally ill, were counted at these places.
Urban: Comprising of all territory, population, and housing units in places of 2,500 or more persons. Rural: Territory, population and housing units not classified as urban, usually places of less than 2,500 persons.
- Table 3. Locality definition accepted.
- Table 4. City: For census purposes often defined as a Minor Civil Division, an entity of the first-order subdivision, and is referred to as an "election district".
- Table 5. Household: A household includes all the persons who occupy a housing unit. A housing unit is a house, an apartment, a mobile home, a group of rooms, or a single room that is occupied (or vacant, is intended for occupancy) as separate living quarters.
- Table 10. Literacy: Ability to read and write. Respondents were asked if they could read and write in any language and enumerators could report being literate in English or in any language. Enumerators were further instructed that a literate person would have the ability to read a letter from someone else and also write a letter.
- Table 16. Ethnic origin or race: a person's origin or descent, "roots", heritage or a place where the person or the person's parents or ancestors were born.
Ethnic group: Persons identified and not necessarily the degree of attachment or association the persons had with the particular group(s).
Multiple Ethnic groups: Persons who reported themselves as two, three, or four ethnic groups such as "Chamorro-Carolinian", "German-Bavarian", Polish
