

Table 7

Table 7 presents occupied housing units by type of housing unit, type of bathing facilities and urban/rural location for the latest available year between 1995 and 2010 .

Definitions

A conventional dwelling is a room or suite of rooms and its accessories in a permanent building or structurally separated part thereof which, by the way it has been built, rebuilt or converted, is intended for habitation by one household and is not, at the time of the census, used wholly for other purposes. It should have a separate access to a street (direct or via a garden or grounds) or to a common space within the building (staircase, passage, gallery and so on). Therefore, there are four essential features of a conventional dwelling:

- (a) It is a room or suite of rooms;
- (b) It is located in a permanent building;
- (c) It has separate access to a street or to a common space;
- (d) It was intended to be occupied by one household.

Bathing facilities: Information is obtained on whether or not there is a fixed bath or shower installation within the premises of each set of housing units. Additional information may be collected to show whether or not the facilities are for the exclusive use of the occupants of the living quarters.
