General metadata

The main source of all publications is the UNSD Annual Questionnaire on Energy Statistics<sup>1</sup>.

In the absence of the UNSD Questionnaire, data are sought from national publications (official statistics), international or regional publications and databases, in this order. In the absence of any of these sources, estimates are carried out to complete the database and enable regional and world totals to be calculated. Occasionally, other reputable sources may be used, either directly or as an input to estimates. These cases are specified in the country-specific metadata.

OECD and EU countries are mandated to submit annual energy statistics questionnaires to the International Energy Agency (IEA) and to Eurostat respectively. For this reason, and in the interest of reducing data burden for these countries, respective data are obtained through the IEA, in the format of the IEA/Eurostat Joint Annual Energy Questionnaires.

As to historical data for OECD and EU countries, it is worth noting that the IEA was created in 1974, while UNSD started collecting energy statistics in 1950. This means that prior to 1974, data for these countries were already being compiled using some version of the UNSD Questionnaire. There was a time when the responsibility of directly contacting the energy authorities of these countries was handed over from UNSD to IEA, but there is no record of the exact year when it happened. Furthermore, not all countries joined the European Union or the IEA/OECD at the time of their inceptions, as their memberships have increased with time (new political arrangements that create new countries out of former ones compound the issue). Moreover, to ensure consistency with possible revisions for particular OECD countries, some data for as early as 1960 may have been imported from the IEA World Energy Statistics Database. For all these reasons, it is not possible to specify when the data source stopped being the UNSD Questionnaire and started to be the IEA World Energy Statistics Database for each of the OECD and EU countries.

Population data used to calculate the per capita indicators are from the United Nations Population Division<sup>2</sup>.

Main sources for biomass include FAO for fuelwood, charcoal and bagasse (estimated from cane sugar production). Up to 2016, data for bagasse was often sourced from the International Sugar Organization (ISO) (estimated from cane sugar production).

Data availability: up to 2023 or 2024 for selected countries. Partial data for 2024 is denoted with a “p” (i.e. 2024<sup>p</sup>).

Acknowledgement is made to governmental, energy and statistical authorities of the Member States which have been cooperative in providing data. Acknowledgement is also due to the following specialized and intergovernmental agencies whose publications have been utilized in supplementing our statistics: African Energy Commission (AFREC), Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC), Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO), International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA), International Energy Agency of the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (IEA/OECD), International Renewable Energy Agency (IRENA), International Sugar Organization (ISO), Organization of Arab Petroleum Exporting Countries (OAPEC), Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC), Organización Latinoamericana de Energía (OLADE), Statistical Office of the European Union (Eurostat), Union Economique et Monétaire Ouest Africaine (UEMOA), and World Energy Council (WEC).
