Abstract

This short presentation will discuss the integration of a gender perspective into UNHCR's statistics. The first part of the presentation will look at UNHCR official statistics on populations of concerns and the extent and coverage of gender disaggregation. The discussion of gender-disaggregated data can be explored in more detail in Global Trends (<http://www.unhcr.org/statistics/unhcrstats/576408cd7/unhcr-global-trends-2015.html>) The second part of the presentation will examine how a gender perspective is incorporated into applied statistical methods in the field, operational data (data.unhcr.org) and emergency information management (<http://data.unhcr.org/imtoolkit>). The challenges and barriers, as well as opportunities and successes, will be discussed at the session.
