TOPONYMIC DATA FILES AND GAZETTEERS

Gazetteer 1991 of Austria

Prepared by H. DESOYE, presented by I. HAUSNER

"ORTSVERZEICHNIS 1991"
(von Österreich)

"GAZETTEER 1991"
(of Austria)

In 1993 the "Gazetteer 1991" (= Gazetteer of inhabited places) was published by the Austrian Central Statistical Office. It consists of a volume or a double volume for each "Land" (Federal Province), together eight volumes as Vienna and Lower Austria are comprised in one volume. Added is a ninth volume containing an alphabetic index for all names contained in the other eight volumes.

Each of the "Länder volumes" consists of a systematic and an alphabetic part.

The systematic part follows the administrative division of each "Land" into administrative districts and communes. Within the communes are listed the "Ortschaften" and within these the "Ortschaftsbestandteile" and other types of settlements.

"Ortschaft" (pl.: "Ortschaften") originally was a group of houses with common numbering. In many of these "Ortschaften" or at least in parts of them this numbering system has been replaced by named streets with normal orientation numbers, but the division of the communes into "Ortschaften" still is in use.

"Ortschaftsbestandteile" are those parts of the "Ortschaften" which are characterized by their separated topographical situation and special local importance. They are the proper settlements. Their settlement type is described by a topographical sign.

Down to the level of the "Ortschaftsbestandteile" statistical data are given for the number of houses, dwellings, households, population, farms and non agricultural local units of employment.

There also exist other types of geographical names in the Gazetteer, but without statistical data.

The alphabetic part contains for each "Land" the names of the systematic part.

It is important to notice that the gazetteer for the first time presents the 91 bilingual (German and Slovenian) names for "Ortschaften" in Carinthia.

A specimen of the gazetteer is added to this paper.

The gazetteer also exists in form of a data file. It is possible to get the whole file or parts of it on electronic data carriers or in printed versions.
