Part II: Comments on specific draft paragraphs or passages

In your review of draft chapter 16, you may wish to devote particular attention to the passages listed below. For ease of reference, we have identified the relevant paragraphs. Please use the space provided to the right of the paragraph number to make your comment.

Index number theory

Section B presents an overview of index number theory as applied in the System. It has been updated to reflect work during the last decade embodied in the new manuals on consumer price indices, producer price indices, and export and import price indices (available in draft).

1. Paragraphs 16.10 - 16.88 present this overview. Are these paragraphs clear and appropriate to the SNA?

General comment	The overview is important particularly for understanding chain indices, and in particular quarterly chaining. Perhaps still more practical guidance would be needed for chaining quarterly accounts, but it may be in a separate manual. (More practical guidance than in the IMF's manual at the moment is still needed.)

Derivation of volume measures in the national accounts

Section C is considerably expanded from its counterparts in the SNA 1993. The ISWGNA agreed that this expansion was needed and that the new price manuals provided useful input for the expansion.

2. Paragraphs 16.89 - 16.183 cover price deflation vs. quantity revaluation, volume measures of the output estimate of GDP, volume measures of the expenditure estimate of GDP, volumes and prices for stocks of non-financial assets and consumption of fixed capital, components of value added, measures of real income for the total economy, and other aspects of price and volume measurement. Are these paragraphs clear and appropriate to the SNA?

16.109	Last sentence of this paragraph (One way of identifying...) should be removed. In national accounts we do not measure outcome but output.

International price and volume comparisons

Section D presents the theory and practical aspects of international comparisons of prices and volumes. It draws on the most recent round of the International Comparison Program, which involved 107 countries.

3. Paragraphs 16.184-16.225 present this material. Are these paragraphs clear and appropriate for the SNA?

General comment	It is very useful to explain this quite complicated issue. Also it is useful to go through practical considerations and relations between PPPs and national accounts.
