

Question for Discussion

Given respondent burden and resource constraints, what is the best way to proceed in developing an extended set of international accounts ?

1. Are indirect estimates using extended supply and use tables good enough for most policy uses?
2. How do we move forward on compiling direct estimates ?
3. How much additional data collection will be necessary for good quality statistics and indicators in this area?