CULTURAL HERITAGE IN BALI

Ni Komang Aniek Purniti

Introduction

Indonesia is an archipelagic country that consists of ~17,000 islands and a home for ~270 millions people that makes Indonesia rich in cultural heritage diversity

Introduction

- One of heritage diversity in Indonesia is shown by ~2,500 regional languages that used as daily language by 79.4% of Indonesian population.
- Those regional languages have several functions related to identity, cultural, and tradition that belong to ~1,300 ethnic groups.
- Cultural heritage diversity in Indonesia is also shown by the presence of cultural heritage sites that became a witness of cultural development in various historical periods in Indonesia.

GEOGRAPHICAL NAMING OF CULTURAL HERITAGE FEATURES IN BALI

Toponym of Administration Area

Geographical place naming on administrative area could be found in most of administrative area in Bali.

In this example will be discussed about Bedulu, Tampaksiring, and Manukaya Villages.

The origin of the Bedulu's name is predicted from the word Bedahulu, found in the Book of Negarakertagama, written by Mpu Prapanca in 1365 AD.

In Chapter XIV Verse 3, it is mentioned that there were sub-nations located eastward of Java, one of which is Bali with Bedahulu and Lwa Gajah as its important locations.

Aside from that, Bedulu, along with Tampaksiring and Manukaya were mentioned in the folklore of Babad Danawantaka and Lontar Usana Bali that are very famous in Bali, particularly in Gianyar Regency.

Toponym of Natural Features

Other examples of geographical naming in Bali also can be found in natural features, namely Pakerisan and Petanu Rivers.

Pakerisan River is part of Subak Landscape of Pakerisan Watershed, one of five sites listed as World Heritage Property of Subak Landscape.

It is indicated that the naming of Pakerisan River and Petanu River were originated from the folklore of Mayadanawa.

Aside from that, the name of Pakerisan can be found in artefactual data in the form of inscription called Tengkulak A, that written as follows:

"... mangawaya ri sanghyang katyagan ing pakrisan ..."
("... already enter the hermitage in Pakerisan...")
