

WORLD STATISTICS DAY CELEBRATION PLANS IN GERMANY

The German Federal Statistics Office will organize a conference entitled "What drives politics - How relevant is statistics?" at the Social Science Research Centre in Berlin, on 20 October 2010. The conference will first focus on the current development of indicators for political governance to measure "Progress, well-being and sustainable development". The second topic of the conference will be the country's 2011 Census. The conference targets key users of the political community (German Parliament), foreign embassies and the German federal ministries.
