Resources on International Trade in Services Statistics and Tourism

UN ServiceTrade Metadata:

Methodological framework: Financial services are included in the current account. They are compiled using the general reporting system.

Data sources: From January 2000, travel is estimated using data on settlements and information from different surveys (both on the demand and the supply side). For data up to 2005, credits are estimated based on expenditure data obtained from a border spending survey combined with information on accommodation and prices, while debits are calculated based on the increasing rates shown by ITRS components. Since January 2006, the new border spending survey has constituted the only source for estimating the credits. Other services are part of the general reporting system (see Sub-section 3.1), except for freight and related services data, which the NSI provides. As stated in Sub-section 3.1, the Banco de España, in cooperation with the NSI, is developing a new survey on other services to replace the current information system.
